

Staying Home Leaving Violence

Do you know someone who's experiencing violence at home?

Staying Home Leaving Violence is a free service that helps women and their children to leave a violent relationship and stay safely at home.

There's a Staying Home Leaving Violence service near you.

Choose to stay and send violence away

Women who want to end violence at home often think leaving is their only choice. But if you want to stay, we can help.

Staying Home Leaving Violence works with the police, courts and local community to help women leave a violent relationship and stay safely in their home and connected to community supports.

We'll support you through the separation, help with legal and police matters, and help make your home and family safe.

Learn more or find your local Staying Home Leaving Violence service here:
dcjnsw.info/StayingHomeLeavingViolence

